Officials Hosted at Reynolds

The amazing progress made by Reynolds Metals Co. in transforming the former Pacific Electric Shops, acquired in 1959, to house four major operations employing more than 200 and expanding rapidly to eventual full use of 400,000 square feet in the 12 buildings, was seen Tuesday by a group of city officials and others on a guided tour of the Torrance facility.

Plant Manager Lew Ward and other company officials led the group through the can and container department, where high speed machinery was producing aluminum cans and rigid foil containers such as pie plates, and through the extrusion plant and the warehouse serving Reynolds customers on the West Coast.

Particular interest centered in the photogravure printing department designed to produce a wide variety of flexible packaging and foil laminated cartons. It is believed to be the largest concentration of packaging printing equipment on the Pacific Coast.

THE DISAPPEARING STREET... A motorist gropes his way through the five-points intersection in the downtown section Monday morning as fog clamped down on Torrance causing the usual rash of automobile accidents which occur on such mornings and closing down the Torrance airport until midmorning.

Gauguin Mural Selected For New Horizons Art

The post impressionist work of French artist Paul Gauguin has been selected to decorate the walls of the recreation building at the New Horizons development in Torrance.

R. A. Watt, developer of the condominium project, selected Gauguin's "Women Under the Pandanus" and commissioned Los Angeles artist George Norrelius to reproduce the painting as a 9½ by 11 foot mural.

Watt said he selected the Gauguin painting because it typifies the active-leisure way of life and fits into the polyesian architecture of the garden apartment development.

In addition to the 600 homes and the recreation building, New Horizons has a nine-hole par 3 golf course, a putting green, swimming pool, and outdoor courts. Each resident is an equal owner of the community areas.

Residency in the project is limited to families in which one spouse is at least 35 years of age. No children under 17 years of age are permitted in the project as permanent residents.

The development is located on Sepulveda Boulevard between Crenshaw Boulevard and Madrona Avenue.

Writing in the New York Times, William D. Smith says: "If mom doesn't have to ration dad to one spoonful of sugar in his cup of coffee next year a large part of the credit will go to the nation's sugar-beet farmers." It is believed that world sugar will fall below consumption — while the American beet farmer will produce a record crop.

New Airport Lease Okayed In Compton

County Supervisors have voted to renew the lease for Compton Airport for 15 months while they continue efforts to acquire a site near Del Amo Boulevard and Alameda Street for a new airport.

Earlier, the Long Beach City Council has asked the supervisors to delay any final decision until a study of the possibility of conflict with the Long Beach Airport operations can be made.

In taking the action approving a new lease for the Compton Airport, the supervisors also directed the county administrative staff to continue negotiations with the state for the new site and asked the county director of aviation, John A. Lambie, to file an application with the Federal Aviation Agency for FAA approval and participation in establishing the new airport.

Boy Scouts Offer Help In Cleanup

An offer of help in beautifying Torrance has been received from the Boy Scouts of America.

In a letter to the Torrance Beautiful Commission, H. Ted Olson, activities chairman for the Boy Scouts, said the boys in Torrance would be happy to supply manpower and supervision for the planting of trees and shrubs in the city.

On a recent tour of the city, members of the Torrance Beautiful Commission cited manpower as the chief stumbling block to further beautification of the city.

Olson told the commission and members of the City Council, "If your organization can secure the trees, shrubs, flowers, tools, etc. we will furnish all the boys with adult leaders necessary to complete any projects you deem desirable."

Mayor Albert Isen called the letter a "tremendous offer." He thanked the scouts and asked that the commission accept it.

Christmas Club Checks Put in Mail

Christmas is coming early for members of the Pacific State Bank's Christmas Club.

A record $212,616 in checks has been put into the mail by the bank, and delivery should be complete this week. A total of 1,451 residents of the Southwest area will receive their checks—ready to go out and do that Christmas shopping.

Total savings under the Christmas Club plan increased by six per cent this year, according to R. C. Yeary, president of the bank.

Applications will be open this week for membership in the 1964 Christmas Club. An employe contest is being held to encourage membership. All offices of the bank will have applications.
